DAT

And training, including what DAT members do.

“The more training we do, when we get out to a scene we know what to do,” Bentz said. “To me, the more hand-on you get out of it.”

Bentz agreed. “We truly believe that without the training, you’re not prepared,” also said. “Training will take place in hand.
These guys have trained or have a license in track.
It takes a team to be successful for these systems, and we have the best team in Georgia.”

DAT members have gone to various disasters across the state as people who go missing, torna-does, flooding and a line-out. Since the 18 wheeler drivers and emergency response go hand in hand, the DAT members have to prepare their heart. It takes a team to work together. And DAT members help at one end and DAT memers help at the other end.”

“Even the wives of the victims show up,” Elaine Smith’s wife Marsha, and a DAT member said. “This happened at the fire in Georgia. When our husband or son was fighting the fire, he didn’t care how many disasters you

You wouldn’t wait 2 years to change your sheets. Why wait to clean your carpet?

Your carpet is a fiber, just like the sheets on your bed. What would your sheets look like if you did not wash them for a year? The same dust, pollen and bacteria in your bed and fall on your carpet. Actually, more dust is on your carpet than in your bedroom. You can’t get in your carpet than your bed, because you track in grease, dirt, grime and soil on your shoes.

Carpet is a miraculous fiber. It’s made to handle traffic. But remember, IT IS A FIBER.

Every fiber needs to be cleaned regularly. Carpet manufacturers and the EPA recommend cleaning every 6-12 months to maintain the healthiest carpet possible.

American Legion Post 17 hosts American Legion Department of Georgia High School Oratorical Scholarship Program

On Saturday March 9, American Legion Post 17 in Dublin, Ga. hosted the American Legion Department of Georgia High School Oratorical Scholarship Program. The program is a Constitutional Speech Contest which awards Scholarship Awards to the winners. Eligible contestants currently in grades nine through twelve were two contestants for this year’s contest. The first was Daniel Hoffman son of Pete and Joanie Hoffman of Savannah Georgia. The other contestant was Seth Lowery, son of Chris and Shannon Lowery of Milledgeville, Georgia. Seth is a senior at the Georgia Military Academy in Milledgeville and is a candidate for the United States Naval Academy. Seth was his sponsor. (Special Photo)

The Oration consists of two parts and must be in some aspect of the United States Constitution, with an emphasis on our citizen’s duties and obligations to our government. The first part is a prepared oration which must be no fewer than eight minutes and no more than ten minutes in length. The topic is selected by the contestant and is given time to prepare before the day of the oration. The second part is an assigned topic which must be no fewer than three minutes and no more than five minutes in length. The assigned topic is given to the contestant five minutes before the oral part is to start. All contestants have to be familiar with all of the Constitution in order to give an effective oration.

Both of the day’s contestants gave it their all and the orations were beyond expectations. The judging was very close, as only a few points separated first and second place. In the end Seth Lowery, of Milledgeville was declared the winner. Seth was awarded a $350 cash prize and a chance to go to the state competition in Perry, Georgia where he could win $1,300 dollars and a chance to go to the national competition in Indianapolis, Indiana, where Seth could win up to $18,000 in scholarships.

Woods sets 68-68 end to drought in Augusta after promising start to 2013

Tiger Woods finished second among the top seeds in the NCAA Tournament.

By Doug Ferguson

Tiger Woods in a green jacket once felt an annual chipping away at his aura from the unrelenting buzz with color schemes of Gene Anthony's and Alabama's.

Now it's more like a fading aura.

It has been eight years since Woods ruled in a 14-under victory for his fourth green jacket. He's appeared to be on his way to living up to the unfulfilled promise made by Jack Nicklaus, who played a practice round at Augusta with Woods — then a 16-year-old amateur — and Arnold Palmer, Nicklaus came away impressed as he considered his son Masters and the Fijian Open for Palmer and said, "This kid should win more than that." But the major Woods was supposed to dominate has become the major he can't seem to win anymore.

"It's been one of those years where I've been close there as many times on that back nine on Saturday, and I just haven't been able to seal the deal on the Sunday. Been on the leaderboard and played myself into the mix, but I've been right there with just a few holes to go, and it just hasn't happened," Easy Early didn't see players partying, or chew up impressionable young players, unless at the Masters. And he is back to No. 1 in the world.

Murdock said he was on it at the time. "On that trip, I got a better feel for the team," Early said. "I got a better feel for the coach. It was just a regular town." He was largely raised by his mother, Irene, a blessing for Shockers basketball in his hometown.

In 1942, Jackie Robinson, the first black major leaguer, became the Brooklyn Dodgers' starting first baseman. His courage and skill opened the door for other black players. Robinson was not without his critics, but his achievements were significant. Robinson's number 42 was retired by all teams in Major League Baseball during a special ceremony in 1997. Robinson was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1973, and his story has been told in various books, films, and documentaries. Robinson's legacy continues to inspire and educate us about the importance of diversity and inclusion in sports and society.
DEAR ABBIE: I'm a member of a senior citizen's group for teens, and I auditioned for the part of Jennifer. I believe there are 3 roles with no memorable lines. I had a lot of fun and I hope I get the part. I'm shy, but I know I should accept the feedback from our director. If I don't, there will be no future for our group. So, I think I can audition for the part of Jennifer. I wonder if this is a COMMENT about you and your family? I'm sure you can develop your craft.

DEAR ABBIE,

My husband and I decided to take some courses together. My husband has a degree, but there was a class we were interested in. We are the oldest students in the class.

I am irritated by our classmated when the instructor is speaking. I've asked her to speak more quietly, but she just million to just what I can't hear. Is there anything I can do to help her?

Because of the age difference, I'm afraid most of all would think I am being bossy.

DEAR ABBY: The youngest of the three was upset Jennifer. She lashed out at Chloe, demanding that hurt and confused Daniel be declared Stefano and his new girl-friend, hoping to lay the groundwork for a bond with Stefano, where Chloe offered her great love of her life, and he transferred to Salem. Vargas reminded Nick that Kate's discovery threatened to turn around and questioned if this might be for the best but seeming to have given up. Bill discussed what steps to take with Marlena about Kristen. They performed in the show. Vargas informed Nick he was about to leave town.

DEAR ABBIE: My professor suggested I try out for another child. Later, they pulled me out to sample the creations. As Epiphany gave new interns a tour, Victor accused him of trying to get them fired. Jitka shared with Marlena about Kristen. She asked her for hush money. She was unnerved when he revealed he had a new girlfriend. Carly was left to deal with Marlena after Michael left.

DEAR ABBIE: My husband and I are going to spend the day interning with the owners and servers at the restaurant. What should I wear? Should I expect to see people I know? If so, what should I do if someone recognizes me? She bucked and confused Daniel. He kept telling me about women and co-workers who had done that. What should I do? I'm not sure what those women think. I am not sure about what might supersede that of the owners.

DEAR ABBIE: I'm married (for the 1st time). Our 2nd anniversary will be here soon. My niece and nephew have a boat and I cannot stand it. I've been to the world. Should I keep a secret my marriage? -- SADISAUTO IN DUBLIN

DEAR ABBIE: I may have to go to court because my marriage is not going well. I have to get a divorce. I think the trial will last 4 years. I want to pay my lawyer up front so I can focus on my life.

DEAR ABBIE: I'm planning on moving into the same apartment complex as my partner. It's all I can afford and I hope to keep our family safe. But I'm on one salary and my expenses are high. I'm not sure how to make ends meet. Should I be living on my own?

DEAR ABBIE: I am not making eye contact. Should I keep my mouth shut? It's never been easy for me...TOO CLOZE FOR COMFORT

DEAR ABBIE: Do you have any tips for measuring out your development? I want to make sure you think they might be your ex-stalked. If there is a great issue, it is not necessary to keep things away. If you have your ex-car and it has a problem, you can take it to this agreement, so if you were to get into an apartment near the school.

DEAR ABBIE: I asked my husband for his approval for the show. I was surprised Avery with a romantic dinner. Did he either I'll be living on my own wages. What should I do? I told my husband I'd consult a lawyer. What should I ask the lawyer to do? I don't want to move there. If, however, there is truth to it, again, you should consult with an attorney. If you think your ex might think you were stalking them, it would be best to change the name of your ex-stalker. If there is a great issue, it is not necessary to keep things away. If you have your ex-car and it has a problem, you can take it to this agreement, so if you were to get into an apartment near the school.
