After 10 years, Miller’s Field closes in PB

By DAVE SCHWAB

Miller’s Field in Pacific Beach, which just celebrated its 10th anniversary in March by revamping its menu, has closed.

In place of the quintessential sports bar, which billed itself as “American fare with San Diego beach flair,” will be Breakfast Republic, a fast-growing chain owned by NOW, Rise and Shine Restaurant Group, founded by Johan Engman.

Pacific Beach will be joining the list of existing Breakfast Republics open in North Park, Liberty Station, Encinitas, East Village, and Ocean Beach.

“We don’t have a set timeline yet,” said Engman, of his plans for reopening the new eatery on Mission Boulevard. “We will mirror the whimsical Breakfast Republic design with our living wall, egg chairs, merchandise wall and sunglass mirrors in the bathroom, to mention a few things.”

Characterizing itself as an “innovative breakfast destination,” Breakfast Republic serves American classics like Oreo pancakes, shrimp and grits and S’mores French toast.

teams collaborated with rescue organizations, such as the Humane Society of the United States and the Humane Society of Naples, to bring 200 rescue and shelter animals to San Diego, making room for evacuee’s lost, displaced and stranded pets.

“These pets are not direct victims,” said San Diego Humane Society’s chief operating officer Jennifer Brehler. “They’re adoptable cats and dogs that were already in shelters near the affected areas that were transferred to San Diego to create room for hurricane victim pets – the lost, stray, or abandoned. These healthy and socialized pets do not have owners who will be searching for them.”

According to Brehler, the upcoming news of Hurricane Harvey alerted San Diego Humane Society (SDHS) to extend assistance and services to Houston’s SPCA and Florida shelters. “As the need grew, we, along with other shelters, responded,” she said.

Seven San Diego Special Response Teams – comprised of staff and volunteers – were deployed to temporary shelters, Houston’s SPCA and Collier County Animal Services. San Diego’s Swift Water Rescue Team – San Diego Humane Law Enforcement and Animal Rescue Reserve – was also deployed. Trained in swift water and flood rescues, these professionals work along state-side task forces in emergency response situations.

Wings of Rescue flew pets from Louisiana and Florida to San Diego where staff and volunteers transport the animals to SDHS, the Rancho Coastal Humane Society and Labrador’s and Friends. San Diego Humane Society’s president and CEO Gary Weitzman explained, that in addition to its Technical Rescue Team, shelter teams provided care to displaced dogs, cats, horses, pigs, cows, trapped livestock and even wildlife. Working tirelessly, teams “never hesitated” to respond to pleas to reunite pets with owners or to provide animals care and comfort.

“Working alongside animal welfare colleagues from organizations in Oregon, Georgia, Missouri, North Carolina, Texas and Florida reminded me of the importance of coming together during times of such devastation – not just for animals in need but for people as well,” he said.

Wittman’s team also helped pets in housing adjacent to a Florida shelter. The pets belonged to hospital patients and evacuees. “Our team cared for the pets so owners would have the comfort of their pets during such a difficult time,” he continued. “Imagine losing your home and being worried about being able to keep your pet. I’m so glad our teams could provide that peace of mind to these hurricane victims.”

Weitzman added that Wings of Rescue flew 49 adoptable dogs and cats from Louisiana and Southeast Texas to Gillespie Field, where staff and volunteers unloaded the creatures in temperatures topping 100 degrees.

Another heartwarming story included a litter of kittens found in the storm rescued by Jackie Noble, SDHS Kitten Nursery supervisor, who named the eight kittens back to health while traveling back to SD in an RV.

AM SLAM shreds Mission Beach

The Sun Diego AM SLAM Surf Series brought its brand of fun in the sun to the shores of Mission Beach on Sept. 30. The competition, the single largest surf and skate event in San Diego, featured a festival in Belmont Park’s parking lot with skateboarding, music, vendors, and world-class surfing.

Many of the women’s shortboard finalists pulled double duty in the women’s longboard divisions. Tiare Thompson, of Bird Rock, owned the longboard final and finished second in shortboard. Lucy Jarrard was the class of the women’s shortboard final, separating herself with superior wave selection and critical placement of her maneuvers. Other double finalists in the women’s division were Molly Tuschen, Peyton Kemp, and Stev Jarrard.

In the open men’s final, Magno Pacheco and Pedro Nogueira turned the heat into a two-man race as they traded the lead multiple times. Pacheco, however, came out the victor and walked away with $500. Maxxwell Rebeiro was named overall men’s champion and also earned $500. Joe Kising won the men’s longboard final.

Girls win Buccaneer Bash volleyball tournament

By Dave Thomas

In girls volleyball play, head coach Steve Upp’s squad comes into action one week after winning the Buccaneer Bash Tournament. Mission Bay (14-5 overall, 0-2 Eastern League) topped Maranatha Christian in a three-set final (25-22, 21-25, 15-12) to claim the title.

Freshman Maya Jesse joined the varsity in the last week, making three freshmen on the squad. Mission Bay is away this week with tough league matches versus Coronado and Patrick Henry, respectively.

“We continue to improve and are competing for every match,” Upp stated.

Boys beach volleyball

Mission Bay boys beach volleyball team continues to battle in competitive league play.

The Bucs, under head coach Nikkit Caufield, completed their third league match last week against a strong Coronado squad.

“We are currently 0-3 in a tough league filled with higher division teams,” Caufield said. “Our young squad is really close to winning matches, as we are typically only a couple of points away from winning. In the matchup against Coronado, 8 of our 10 games were decided by three points or less.”

The squad this year is comprised of a senior, two juniors, four sophomores and three freshmen, generally playing squads dominated almost exclusively by juniors and seniors.

“The Bucs have a bye this week before they play Saints on Oct. 12,” Caufield said of the team’s progress. “The way the league play works out for beach, it ends up seeding teams for the playoffs between Open, Division I and Division II. As our younger players are steadily progressing, we are hopeful that they’ll get the experience playing higher-level opponents now in preparation for the playoffs.”

Field hockey

Head coach Kris Auer’s squad comes into action this week at 3-3. The Bucs are being led by Emily Crissman and Clara Sandoval, a pair of seniors who are scoring goals.

“The team’s last game (Valhalla),” Auer commented, “was a situation where everything clicked.”

Girls tennis

Head coach Trong Tong’s team entered play this week at 5-4 overall (5-2 league). According to Tong, top players to date include McKenna Mountain, (No. 1 singles), along with the No. 1 doubles duo of Amanda Edmunds and Rosina Vaila.

“After going on a five-game winning streak that started four weeks ago, we’ve come back down to earth a little bit as we lost our last two just last week,” Tong stated.

“As a few of our players have been plagued by injury and illness as of late, we’re still striving to get back on track and finish the season strongly. Hopefully, we’ll shake off the injury bug real soon, or else it will be quite an uphill climb since we have
Church leaders respond to petition to end free homeless meals in Pacific Beach

By DAVE SCHWAB

Responding to a recent petition drive started by a Pacific Beach man asking churches to stop feeding the homeless, two local church leaders said the free meals are part of their mission, and a convenient way to provide outreach services to the needy.

“We began our meals here seven or eight years ago, and we feel strongly that this is a part of the mission of the church, and that it’s something we need to be doing,” said Deacon Chris Halbert of St. Brigid Parish at 4735 Cass St., which serves dinner to the homeless every second and fourth Monday, catering to 120 to 150 men, women and children. “There was a feeling that, we as a Christian community, needed to be active in Christian ministry.”

Along with dinner, Halbert said St. Brigid does one more thing for guests at its feeds.

“They can get a snack bag with juice and snacks in it, those are available all the time at the office,” he said. “A typical dinner menu would include homemade meatloaf, mashed potatoes, green beans, a salad, a bread roll, coffee, water and lemonade.

“We also give out privately-donated toiletry kits, shoes and other items people might need,” Halbert said.

Two weeks ago, Matt Phillips, of North Crown Point, kicked-off a petition drive on change.org that reads, “The weekly dinners for the homeless population in Pacific Beach are contributing to the complacency and habitual state of their homelessness…this seems to be one of the primary reasons that we have such a population of homeless that never leave or attempt to get off the streets. Churches are enabling some of the very crime that plagues our seaside community. We exercise the right to demand an end to cooking the homeless dinners six days a week because it gives people the wrong idea. For too long has this transpired without accountability of the local churches and we demand immediate legitimate recognition of this petition as it accumulates in signatures.”

Phillips’ petition drive netted more than 345 signatures in just a couple of days. The goal is to reach 500 supporters. He said he plans to confer with PB church leaders to ask them to stop feeding the homeless. He also intends to submit signatures he's gathered to Councilmember Lori Zapf and the City Council.

“Here, meals are open to everybody,” said Pastor Bob Rhodes, of Pacific Beach United Methodist Church at 1561 Thomas Ave., which feeds the homeless every Wednesday night.

“We see 150 to 175 people, and not everyone is homeless,” Rhodes said. “There are all kinds of folks, not just those stereotypically homeless. There are families who come here, folks showing up living in their cars. There’s even a guy who regularly shows up in a business suit.”

Rhodes said those attending PB Methodist’s free dinners get more than a meal.

“UC San Diego dental and medical students along with licensed professionals run a free clinic here to serve people who don’t have access to medical care,” he said. “We also have a social worker and a psychologist here for the dinners, even an acupuncturist.”

Rhodes said PB Methodist also distributes hygiene kits that include not only ways to clean up, but information about things like Hepatitis A, which the unsheltered can get having no access to bathrooms.

This year’s “Best at the Beach Fish Taco” competition will take place at the Pacific BeachFest on Saturday, Oct. 7. The Sandbar Sports Grill has won for the past five years.

Sandbar Sports Grill is located in Mission Beach on Ventura Place, right next to Belmont Park. Tacos are the main dish on their menu and they have a huge tequila and rum section. Their slogan is “Tacos, tequila, tikis.” Tiki, because their drinks are inspired by tiki culture and the islands.

“It is nothing like a traditional fish taco,” said assistant general manager Arika Herrera. Their fish taco is made with grilled mahi mahi, a cajeta-crushed flour tortilla with cotija cheese melted on it, chipotle aioli, beer-brined escabeche slaw, lime crema, spicy guacamole, tobacco onions and topped with fried cilantro.

“It is an explosion of flavor. There are a lot of things going on, so when you take a bite you get a little of everything. You get a little spicy and you get a little freshness. Everything is just in balance,” said Herrera.

Pacific BeachFest music will range from reggae to mambo, to singer-songwriters

By BART MENDOZA

With its mix of surf, sun, food and music there is no better way to kick off fall than Pacific BeachFest, which takes place on Oct. 7. There will be plenty of activities for the whole family, but one of the event’s biggest draws is the music, taking place across three stages, from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. The day offers up something for just about every musical taste, from reggae to mambo, and rock to singer-songwriters.

Main Stage

The Main Stage has one of the strongest bills in recent years, headlined by Florida-based singer Leilani Wolfgramm (5:45 p.m.). Although considered a reggae singer, Wolfgramm blends in hip-hop and R&B for a sound that’s rhythmic, danceable and radio ready.

The Main Stage will open strong with a set from reggae-influenced singer-songwriter Casey Turner (11 a.m.). Turner, a former NASA employee, made headlines last year when his song, “Waves On The Ocean,” was played aboard the International Space Station, becoming the first reggae song debuted in space. Turner is well-deserving of the attention, with an easy-going stage manner and set list full of catchy tunes, such as “Semi Automatic.”

Meanwhile, soul-blues band The King Taylor Project (12:25 p.m.), based around the vocals of Sandi King and guitar/vocals of Joshua Taylor, is one of the hottest prospects in town at the moment. The secret to the band’s success being in their terrific songs, such as melancholy rocker “High Road,” that sound like standards in the making. Their shared vocals also add much to their sound, but this is one of the strongest combos to hit the local music scene in quite some time.

Also recommended on the Main Stage is the Cassie B Project (3:05 p.m.), one of the area’s best dance bands. Led by singer Cassie Bowerman, the band plays a wide range of covers, but their specialty is R&B and soul dance classics where Bowerman can really let her vocals soar. With a set comprised of nothing but crowd pleasers, from the likes of Journey, Taylor Swift and the Jackson, their set will be one the event’s highlights.

Community Stage

The Community Stage will feature a mix of local favorites, including Pray for Surf (2:50 p.m.) and The Big Daddy Blues Band (5:10 p.m.), but the focus will be on young musicians from local schools. On hand will be Crown Point Jr. Music Academy (11 a.m.), PB Middle School Band (1:10 p.m.) and St. Paul’s School Choir (2 p.m.). The Community Stage highlight promises to be an appearance by the Mission Bay High School Preservationists Mambo Orchestra (3:40 p.m.) performing under the direction of J.P. Balmat. The big band will bring Latin rhythms and such classic tunes to the beach.

Beer Garden Stage

Meanwhile, the Beer Garden Stage will feature a mix of indie bands and DJs including DJ Billy The Kid (1:15 p.m.) and DJ Who (5:15 p.m.). Several reggae-influenced bands will also be performing. For sheer manic energy it will be hard to top reggae/rock hybrid Split Finger (1:45), but pop reggae combo Cityside (3 p.m.), will be close contenders, having built a large local following through their blend of pop hooks and island rhythms. Topping the bill will be bluesy rockers, Band of Gringos (5:45 p.m.). A power trio in the tradition of the Jimi Hendrix Experience.
