Ocean Beach residents render retail resistance

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

No way, no how. That’s what some Obecians are saying, unequivocally, to the prospect of a Target Express coming into their beach community.

In what could be the end of the antique mall era in OB, the Target Corp. is negotiating to acquire the 18,000-square-foot Antique Center building in the 4800 block of Newport Avenue.

A Target Express is a downsized version of the original Target store introduced by the chain across the country in a variety of sizes and assortments. The new store model is meant to create a more locally relevant big-box experience in urban areas.

Commercial Realtor Tony Franco of The Franco Realty Group in Pacific Beach, who has been brokering the Target deal, said he couldn’t comment other than to say, “Target is doing their due diligence by responsibly reaching out to the local community and asking for input. If the public wants to submit an offer, they can send it to Info@TonyFrancoRealty.com.”

From his survey of other commercial landlords in the area, Franco said: “They are all 100 percent on board with the potential of the Target transaction. However, most locals are scared to come forward and say they are opposed to Target coming in.”

A pipelines replacement project will have the Peninsula torn up for awhile, but not to worry, the city’s promising disruption from the project, whose purpose is to improve the area’s overall drinking water system, will be minimal.

The project replaces two 16-inch diameter water mains installed in the 1940s and 1950s with new 16-inch polyvinyl chloride water mains. It replaces 4.4 miles of cast iron pipelines that have reached the end of their useful life. The project excludes segments of pipeline within:

- Avenida de Portugal (Locust to Willow);
- Caton Street (Evergreen St. to Pt. Loma Community Park, near Ulman St.);
- Catalina Boulevard (a portion between Hill St. and La Paloma St.);
- Evergreen Street (Caton St. to Nimitz Blvd.);
- Hugo Street (N Harbor Dr. to Locust St.);
- Locust Street (Hugo St. to Avenida de Portugal);
- Nimitz Boulevard (Rosecrans St. to N Harbor Drive);
- North Harbor Drive (Chauncey Road to Hugo St.); and
- Point Loma Avenue (Caton St. to Catalina Boulevard).

Two Point Lomans, Joseph Holasek, a member of the Peninsula Community Planning Board, speaking on his own behalf, and Robert (Tripp) Jackson, longtime member and past president of the Point Loma Association, weighed in on the pipeline work and its community impact.

“My two cents worth is that people always complain when repairs affect them, but that they also demand that all of their infrastructure works well, all the time,” said Holasek, an architect. “For example, I thought that Talbot was closed inordinately long a couple years ago when they stabilized the slope bank, but it was what it was, and it eventually reopened. There are clearly a lot of infrastructure improvements throughout Point Loma. But they’ll benefit us all when completed.”

“Never heard of that street (Cochran),” said Jackson, adding, “They are up Catalina passed Wilcox Street today.”

Jackson noted pipeline construction crews “Had to travel through the Catalina/Canon medians that lot of infrastructure improvements when they stabilized the slope bank, but it was what it was, and it eventually reopened. There are clearly a lot of infrastructure improvements throughout Point Loma. But they’ll benefit us all when completed.”

“Never heard of that street (Cochran),” said Jackson, adding, “They are up Catalina passed Wilcox Street today.”

Shelter Island boat launch to close after Labor Day

By DAVID SCHWAB

The Shelter Island boat launch is currently operating with one lane open during a major improvement project to provide better access for boaters. After the Labor Day weekend (Sept. 1-4), it will be completely closed from Sept. 5 through the completion of construction, currently anticipated for next March.

One of the busiest boat launches in California, with an estimated 50,000 launches annually, the approximately $9.5 million improvement project was designed with extensive public outreach. It has received funding from the California Department of Boating and Waterways and the Wildlife Conservation Board.

The closure will allow the contractor to continue jetty removal operations to make room for the new concrete breakwater and walkway. Alternate boat launch facilities are available.

The improvement project has been underway since May 30. Once open, the contractor has begun the removal of the west jetty and installation of a cofferdam – a watertight enclosure that is pumped dry to permit construction of the new concrete ramp.

All new piers and concrete wall panels for the project are currently in fabrication off-site. When complete, the new and improved boat launch will be easier to navigate and include these improvements:

- New signage and lighting; and
- Docks, public walkways and restrooms that are up to current ADA standards.

Construction of the new concrete ramp was constructed. The facility is currently operating with one lane closed from Sept. 5 through the completion of construction, currently anticipated for next March.

The facility is used by recreational boaters from the general public, including small yachts, inboard and out-board motorboats, private fishing boats, fishing tournament boats and amphibious tour buses.

“This project recognizes that the boat launch needs to be enlarged, made more safe and more navigable and maneuverable making it easier for boats to move around within the basin once they’re in the water,” said Brianne Page, marketing and public relations representative for the Port District.

“It will increase the length of the boarding floats. We’ll be installing a public walking platform with viewing areas. We’ll also be installing more signage and better lighting, as well as bring the restrooms up to current ADA standards.”

A list of alternate launch ramps in San Diego Bay and adjacent areas:

• San Diego Bay – Kayak Launch Ramp, 2869 Historic Decatur Road;
• Mission Bay – Dana Landing, 2580 Ingraham St.;
• Mission Bay – South Shores, S. Shores Park Drive;
• Mission Bay – Ski Beach Boat Launch Ramp, Ingraham Street and Vacation Road;
• Mission Bay – Santa Clara Point, 1001 Santa Clara Place.

Northern district team wins Ron Trenton Memorial Lifeguard Relays in Ocean Beach

By MATHILDE ROUSSEAU BJERREGAARD

On Wednesday, Aug. 23, San Diego Fire-Rescue Lifeguard Services Division held the 64th annual Ron Trenton Memorial Lifeguard Relays in Ocean Beach and this year’s winners were the northern district lifeguards from La Jolla.

The relays are an exciting and challenging competition among lifeguards that include 12 legs that demonstrate the variety of rescue techniques used in ocean rescue such as running, swimming, paddle boarding and landline rescue.

“The event is a great way of showing the public the lifeguards’ lifesaving capabilities, and it is great fun for the lifeguards. It is one of the highlights of the summer,” said Lifeguard chief Rick Wurts.

La Jolla lifeguards vehemently cheer on their teammate during the relays in Ocean Beach last week.

San Diego Fire-Rescue’s Lifeguard Services Division is geographically divided into four operational areas: northern includes Ocean Beach and the central includes Mission and Pacific beaches, northern includes the La Jolla beaches and the fourth area includes Mission Bay and the Boat Ramp Safety Unit.

At the event, lifeguards from the four areas compete against each other in current and traditional rescue techniques that lifeguards use.

“It is to promote esprit de corps among the lifeguards. Camaraderie and friendship among the lifeguards. It is one of the fun things we do to celebrate our profession,” said Wurts.

Ron Trenton Memorial Lifeguard Relays is named after veteran lifeguard and longtime northern district team captain, Ronald B. Trenton. Trenton was lost at sea while piloting his private plane from Catalina Island to San Diego in 1997.

Wildcats light up Pointers in home opener

By SCOTT HOPKINS | The Beacon

The bitter memory of a Point Loma High victory in the opening round of last year's CIF playoffs may have motivated El Camino High’s performance before a capacity crowd last Friday night under the Pointers’ long-awaited stadium lights.

The Wildcats used flashes of dominance, especially in the passing game, to inflict their own dose of bitterness as they raced, literally, to a 34-12 victory over the Pointers.

Last year, the Pointers traveled to Oceanside and came home with a 21-8 defeat by the Wildcats before defeating the same team in a thrilling 42-35 battle that ended the ‘Cats’ season.

During the offseason, the Wildcats added wide receiver Malachi Russell, a transfer from Orange Glen (Escondido) where he caught 87 passes for 1,742 yards and 24 touchdowns.

Add to that the return of running back Josh Ball, who ran for 1,142 yards last year. "Noth-" (dido) where he caught 87 passes for 1,742 yards and 24 touchdowns.

And while Russell wasn’t cleared to play until the day before the season opener, his presence proved painful for the Pointer secondary as he raced, literally, to a 34-12 victory over the Pointers.

"They came out hard," said senior Pointer running back Josh Ball, who runs for 1,142 yards last year. "Nothing can prepare you for a first game like practicing hard and I think we need to pick that up. El Camino is always a good team and they came in highly ranked. We might have been a little more focused on the (new) lights than trying to win the game."

A freakish turn of events led to the first Wildcat score after Pointer Matthew Palaulele broke through punt protection to block a ‘Cat punt attempt from deep in their own territory. However, in his race to pick up the wobbling pigskin, he kicked it into the end zone and before he could pounce on it for a touchdown, the ball had crossed the field’s end line.

Referees huddled, ruled it a touchback and gave possession to the Wildcats on the 20-yard line, a decision that didn’t sit well with the Pointers. Then a play later, slot back Wayne Steward broke past the Pointer line and couldn’t be caught as he raced 74 yards for the game’s first score.

The rest of the first quarter and early second quarter saw both teams unable to move the ball consistently until the Pointers put together a nice drive that featured two completions by senior quarterback Kyle Grady. But another Grady attempt was picked off by the Wildcats to end the threat.

On the following Pointer possession, the Dogs found themselves pinned deep in their own territory, sending Grady back to punt from his end zone. The resulting punt only traveled 18 yards and the Wildcats took immediate advantage as quarterback Jaden Casey hit Russell on a first-play slant pattern that consumed only six seconds and doubled the ‘Cats’ lead to 14-0 at the break.

The Pointers narrowed the lead to 14-6 after Grady hit JL Skinner on a beautiful 12-yard pass play that saw Skinner drag a Wildcat defender across the goal line from five yards out with just over six minutes left in the third quarter.

But the Wildcats put the game out of reach by scoring three more touchdowns before the Pointers could answer again.

First it was Zack Brown on an 11-yard run and on the next drive, Russell’s second scoring catch, this time for 20 yards and a 26-6 lead after three quarters. Casey hit a streaking Russell again for a 74-yard strike in the fourth quarter to end Wildcat scoring.

The Pointers’ longest play of the night came with 1:27 left to play when Grady found junior fullback Cameron Anuva on the right sideline for a 60-yard score.

"There was a lot of excitement with the new lights," Pointer head coach Mike Hastings said. ‘There was a lot of excitement with the new lights.’

Memorial concert for Aristotle Georgio
On Sept. 17, a memorial will be held at Winston’s Beach Club from 1 to 5 p.m. in honor of Aristotle Georgio, who died on Aug. 2. Georgio was a musician who has been playing at OB venues since the ’70s. He spent his career moving from band to band; he played the harmonica for a number of local groups, including BB King, Bo Diddley, and The Allman Brothers. Georgio was a well-known figure in Ocean Beach — some referred to him as the “Mayor of OB.” due to his expansive personality and Southern charm.

His friend, Paul Bolton, described him as quite the character. “He was very friendly,” Paul told us. “No one you could talk to would have a bad word to say about him.”

Georgio’s friends from the industry will attend, volunteering their time and talent to provide live music. All proceeds from tickets and T-shirt sales will go toward Blues San Diego, a nonprofit that runs a summer blues workshop for kids. Donations will go into a scholarship set up in Georgio’s name, which will be used to fund the enrollment of a number of aspiring children.

‘Avenue Q’ musical dazzles at Ocean Beach Playhouse

By LUCIA VITI | THE BEACON

“Avenue Q” is a hilariously offbeat, adult-only, delightful musical, now showcasing at the OB Playhouse and Theatre Company. The characters – divided between flesh and felt – dazzle in this coming of age story that satirizes “all grown up.”

Sidling PBS’s beloved “Sesame Street,” unconcealed puppeteers, puppets and human actors lament to learn that what “Sesame Street” taught us – we’re the cat’s meow and the world is our oyster – is a hoax. Life as latter 20s and 30-somethings is not easily launched on the sunny side of the street. The real world imposes limitations to a populace where the playing field is even. In other words, you’re really not that special. Adults scramble and sacrifice, lose and learn, and rise and fall in order to fail and succeed, often on repeat.

Staying solvent in New York is not an easy task for Princeton, the show’s principal character. The college graduate arrives in the world’s busiest city, bright-eyed, bushy-tailed and ready for success. However, his tiny budget saddles him to the borough of Queens’ Avenue Q – because Avenue’s A through P are too expensive. Job hunting is tediously unsuccessful as noted by the song, “What Do You Do With A B.A. In English?” followed by “It Sucks To Be Me.”

But all is not that awful. “Avenue Q” is home to a colorful cast of neighbors. Kate Monster, the girl next door who secretly desires Princeton; Rod, the Republican investment banker and closeted gay; Lucy, the lovable slut donning a “what Madonna would look like chubby” costume; Trekkie, the internet entrepreneur infamous for surfing the net for pornography; Lavinia Thistletwat, the unlikeable kindergarten teacher who deserves her name; Nicky, the beloved good Samaritan; and Gary Coleman, the building’s superintendent who is as Gary Coleman as Gary Coleman. Peach, Boy Bear and Girl Bear a.k.a. Bad Idea bears, complete the furry cast.

Live denizens include Brian, an unemployed wannabe comic and Christmas Eve, Brian’s Japanese, double MBA, therapist fiancée. While addressing sex, alcohol and pornography, the characters struggle through issues surrounding careers, relationships and the meaning of life. Vignettes include Princeton’s pursuit for employment; Kate Monster’s desire to build a Monsters-sori School – get it “Monsters-sori”; Rod’s search for courage to proclaim his homosexuality; Christmas Eve’s rally for patients and Brian’s commitment acceptance to marry his fiancé.

And no puppet show would be complete without puppet sex. Yup. Laugh out loud puppet sex. The show’s cast of characters express their secret longings in songs such as “I Wish I Could Go Back to College,” “Everyone’s A Little Bit Racist,” “Fantasies Come Through,” “There’s A Fine, Fine Line,” “The Money Song,” “School for Monsters,” “I’m Not Wearing Underwear Today” and “Schadenfreude.”

The dialogue is funny. The live actors are great, the singing is superb and the comedic timing is spot on. The talented ensemble delivered first-class entertainment affront a quirky – yet perfect – stage design. The puppets are amazing. Although not recommended for children – I would even caution against youthful teenagers – I highly recommend “Avenue Q” for anyone in need of an evening of humor and levity.

San Diego is known as a haven for singer-songwriters, with performers coming from near and wide to be a part of the music community. Such is the case with Sarah Rogo, who will host a special “signing show” on Sept. 2 at Java Joe’s celebrating her recent signing to Los Angeles-based label, Funzalo Records. Originally from New England, few have taken the local scene by storm quite like Rogo.

A masterful songwriter, with a whiskey-tinged voice to match her slide guitar playing and a commanding stage presence, even in a community that has spawned such luminaries as Jack Tempchin, Jason Mraz, Steve Poltz and Gregory Page, Rogo is a stand out.

She arrived in San Diego on Jan. 1, 2016, drawn by the same thing that lures many. “Ever since I was little, I wanted to be a surfer,” she said. “I figured I would get closer to LA and closer to the surf culture I’ve always craved.”

Rogo has been performing since she first picked up the guitar. “Technically my first performance was ‘a mash up of ‘Happy Birthday’ and ‘Amazing Grace’ at my parents barbecue,” she said. “But my first big performance was when I was 15 at a park amphitheater in Danbury Conn.”

Though now known for her guitar skills, Rogo was initially a saxophone player, inspired by her local library. “I would wander around the music collection as a kid and discover new music,” she recalled. “That’s where I found the blues. I was a saxophone player who played guitar on the side to write my songs but when I started studying at Berklee College of Music in Boston I met my guitar heroes, Paul Rishell and Woody Mann. They opened up a whole new world for me and I’ve been hooked on guitar ever since.”

Rogo notes the choice of Java Joe’s for venue was both for its history and its vibe. “I love the new Java Joe’s,” she enthused. “It’s a great location and so comfortable. It’s very conducive to listening and that’s why I chose it for my label-signing celebration show.” For this event Rogo will be performing solo, with special guests joining in. She will debut a full band for her performance at the Adams Avenue Street Fair on Oct. 1.

For her part, Rogo is happy with her move west. “My time in San Diego has been incredibly exceptional,” she said. “There have been so many kind hearts that have supported and helped me. I have never felt more at home.”

Even with so much positive happening in her career at the moment, Rogo acknowledges the music business can be tough. “Sometimes I don’t know how I keep going, but my feet and fingers just keep moving and I don’t look back,” she said. “Usually it’s the pure love of a good song and getting it out there to people. At the end of the day it’s just about having fun, so I try to find ways to always keep that spark.”

Next year will see Rogo continue to record and tour further afield. It’s all part of why she enjoys being a musician. “I like meeting new people and going new places, I enjoy taking an essence-like feeling or message and turning it into a song,” she mused. “I enjoy discovering myself through writing and performing.”

Now an established West Coast resident, has surfing crossed over into her music? “You bet it does,” she said. “Surfing and music are so intertwined for me. Not only is the community tight-knit, they are supportive and come out to my shows, but it’s also very emotionally tied together.” It’s clear how much Rogo loves her new home in San Diego. “I gain so much personal strength paddleboarding out every day,” she explained. “I face my fears, I calm my mind, and I find the same spiritual beauty in both music and surfing.”

admit they are for Target moving forward. Many of the elderly property owners especially in the area, are very excited about Target moving in.

Sentiment has also been expressed, by others, that vehement public opposition to the new Target has constituted “piling on.” Gretchen Newsom, Ocean Beach Town Council president, said that simply isn’t the case.

“We invited Target into our community to see what they wanted to do, answer how a new Target might benefit the community,” Newsom said. “It was an open community forum.”

Newsom said the overriding community sentiment about Target came across at the public forums.

“Our community, our merchants, our culture, those who responded on Facebook, social media and our website, the sentiment is loud and clear — people are opposed to Target coming,” she said.

Architect John Ambert, chair of the Land使用ing Board, speaking as a citizen, commented, “Long story short: Target executives and the building owners, Craig and Scott, are all bullying this project forward against the general will of the community and surrounding small-business owners. Besides purchasing the building or some random act of nature, there is really nothing our community can do about it. It is extremely frustrating and truly disappointing that is has come down to this.”

Ambert said he believes that “the only viable solution moving forward that I can see is the citizens of Ocean Beach working to craft a community rooted enterprise investment model that pulls together $6.5 million to purchase the building.”

If not a Target, what would Oceansiders prefer go into the old antique mall space on Newport Avenue?

“The whole gamut, everything from bowling alleys (site once was one), a new location for the library, a health and welfare center, a multitude of different ideas, rather than the second-largest retailer in the nation in our community,” Newsom said.

Meanwhile, Brian Fitzgerald has started a petition drive on change.org at www.change.org /residents-of-ocean-beach-keep-target-out-of-ocean-beach, opposing Target’s entrance into the OB market, which to date has netted 2,000-plus supporters.

Even the James Gang Co. printers in OB have been recruited by the opposition to come up with a “No Target in OB” T-shirt. No OB Target tees cost $10 and are available at the James Gang printers at 1931 Bacon St. or at the James Gang’s booth during the Ocean Beach Farmers Market.

Newsom said the OB Town Council board of directors will likely take up the matter of considering a position of support — or opposition — on the proposed Target at their next board meeting in closed session Sept. 12.

Newsom added the community has vented enough already on the OB Target, and that OBTC will likely be moving on to other topics come September as well.

The Peninsula Beacon reached out to District 2 Councilmember Lori Zapf’s office about the issue. She is looking into it and has yet to take a position on Target Express in Ocean Beach.

Extra points

• The Camino head coach Jerry Ralph was suspended from coaching last week by the Oceanside School District with no explanation given to local news media, instead citing “personnel matter” confidentiality.

• The Wildcats came into the game ranked eighth in a preseason poll. Pointer league foes Cathedral, Madison and St. Augustine were ranked three, four and five respectively. With Lincoln (ninth), the Pointers play against half of the preseason top 10.

• The Pointer JV team (0-1) lost to El Camino 41-21. The freshman team (1-0) won a 20-14 thriller.

Mike Hastings said, “I think our kids played hard at the beginning. We blocked a punt and we battled. Offensively, I think we made some gains but then had penalties and first-game mistakes.

“Our kids are resilient and in the (post-game) locker room there was a strong resolve to improve. We’ll clean up our mistakes and get better.”

Ball looks to repeat or exceed last year’s numbers as he picked up 140 tough yards on 23 carries, (6.1 average) against a physical Wildcat defense.

For the game, Grady completed seven of 19 passes for 159 yards and two scores. He was sacked four times and found himself flushed from the pocket while pursued by defenders several other times when unable to find an open receiver.

In all, the Pointers totaled 331 yards of offense in the loss. Besides Auva’a’s scoring catch, Skinner caught two passes for 58 yards, Malik Moore snagged a pair for 24 yards and Ball’s two grabs covered 17 yards.

Lineman Davin Folosei flattened and clearly dominated numerous Wildcats on both offense and defense.

The Dogs return to action Sept. 1, when they make the long trip to Ramona to face the Bulldogs in a 7 p.m. kickoff.
