Culminating a community-inspired petition drive months ago favoring a boutique grocery over a chain drugstore, Jensen’s Finest Foods debuted in Point Loma on Dec. 9 with a brief ceremony before doors swung open at 9 a.m.

Jensen’s replaces the retail space formerly inhabited by Fresh & Easy in the small shopping center at 955 Catalina Blvd. The lease for the former Point Loma Fresh & Easy was sold to CVS Pharmacy through a bankruptcy court in Delaware.

But that sale prompted a public outcry – and a successful petition drive at change.org – launched by Peninsulans to protect an existing mom-and-pop, Point Loma Cabrillo Drug, in the same shopping center.

Jensen’s Finest Foods original market was opened in Blue Jay, near Lake Arrowhead, in 1940 by Einer and Marie Jensen.

Their odds-defying season was without serious challenge by opponents, even during the first two Super Bowl matches, held the last 20 years at the ESPN Wide World of Sports, a large complex of fields located on the grounds of Walt Disney World.

That was until the Pointers’ final championship game last Friday when they faced off against the scrappy crew.

For the 29 boys and their coaches, their Super Bowl trip and triumph concluded a perfect season, winning all 13 of their regular season and playoff games before going undefeated in three games at the Pop Warner Super Bowl tournament in Lake Buena Vista, Fla.
Keepers’ kids recall Christmas at Lighthouse

By Karen Scanlon | The Beacon

Today, Santa is hard-pressed to find a suitable lofty entry at the light- house dwellings on Point Loma. Fireplaces that once warmed every room have been removed. But in the glory days of government-appointed keepers, chimneys a-plenty rose through the rooftops.

Kids living at Point Loma Light Station in the 1930s and ’40s didn’t realize, at the time, that they were special. Some 60 years later we’d find them and paste their narratives in the annals of lighthouse history. Though the keepers themselves have long since passed, the rich Christmas memories of their adult children survive.

“It was wonderful growing up at the lighthouse,” recalled Florida resident Lexie Johnson Johnson (she had also married a Johnson). Her father, Milford, served as keeper at Point Loma from 1931 to 1952.

“My mother was a great cook and our little old dining room really groaned with all the food and people. During the war, no matter how many were invited to our house, my dad would always go to the U.S.O. and bring at least two servicemen home for Christmas dinner.”

“...except sugar, salt, and pepper,” Lexie says. He raised pigs in a large enclosure on the lighthouse grounds. “So there was always a ham on Christmas.” A good-sized fresh tree was decorated in the front room and a yule log burned in the fireplace.

Lexie loved walking in the fog, which often prevailed at Christmas time, “Though I never fell off the cliff.” Quiet as it might have seemed, the blaring fog signal was part of life at the lighthouse.

Fifty yards uphill from Lexie’s home was the head keeper’s dwelling where the Dudley family lived. Joan Dudley Eayrs of Oregon and older sister Pat Dudley Goulart of El Cajon also spent childhoods at the lighthouse. Their father, James Eliot Dudley, was appointed keeper in 1938 and stayed until mid-1950. Dudley’s three children were born during his tenure at Point Loma.

“We always had a big tree,” Joan says, “often standing in the corner of the sunporch. As we got older, Pat and I did the decorating; we learned to hang that tinsel piece by piece.”

There were 105 individual panes of glass in the sunporch windows. Joan and Pat both tell of having made mixtures of water and Bon Ami (a cleaning powder) for snow-drifts in the corners of each pane.

“But whoever made the snow, also got the job of cleaning it off,” Joan says.

“I don’t really think the ships at sea could see any of the snow on the panes,” Pat laughs.

Pat also remembers decorations at Marston’s Department Store, and celebrating with their Ballast Point Lighthouse neighbors, the Pozanac and Franke families.

“There was eggnog and old-fashioned fruit cake. Homemade plum pudding with flamed brandy sauce. A huge turkey, grown in Dad’s chicken yard. Fried parsnips from the garden, rutabagas and cranberry sauce. Often we had lobster from our own rocks.”

All cooking was done over the cast...

Voltaire Beach House coming to Ocean Beach in January

No beach town is complete without a salty air destination locals can call home. Inspired by the seaside beach homes of Nantucket, Voltaire Beach House is about to open its doors to the Ocean Beach community with an official grand opening in early January.

Located at 4934 Voltaire St., this neighborhood restaurant and bar is sure to connect with all who share a love of the coast with its 3,000-square-foot interior, including a wrap-around bar located both inside and outside. Patrons can also enjoy Pacific Ocean breezes on their 900-square-foot patio, perfect for dining al fresco with the warmth of a fireplace in the evenings. The antique copper design elements, rustic paint design and spiral staircase inspire feelings of a true beach haven.

With consulting chef Abe Botello at the helm, the menu will feature new American cuisine. Botello gained significant experience working for Urban Solace and the Moonlight Lounge and is known for his delicious food in his current role as executive chef of West Coast Tavern in North Park. The local restaurant will have a full liquor license and local brews on tap.

At the helm of operations will be general manager Gabriel Shantz, who lives just a few blocks away from the establishment and understands the heart of Ocean Beach. Working hand-in-hand with the owner, David Schifman, they are creating a vision for Voltaire Beach House to be a truly comfortable, neighborhood hub.

Voltaire Beach House is hiring for all positions. Interested parties may contact them at hello@voltairebeachhouse.com.

JENSEN’S

It has been family owned and operated ever since.
Brothers Matt and Adam Zack are now involved in expanding the family business statewide. Noting the Point Loma site closed escrow April 1, Adam Zack said construction to refit the former Fresh & Easy began Aug. 1.

“We’re probably about 75 percent complete right now,” said Adam Zack, noting finishing touches remain that will take some time.

Zack said Jensen’s prides itself on its local-community focus. “Our big mission is to be part of the communities we’re in – and we’ve been in them for a long time,” he said. “We really spent a lot of time talking to locals, to get a feel for what they wanted and expected in a store. We used that feedback to come up with our mix of what we feel the community is really looking for.”

What people are seeking, Zack said, noting finishing touches remain that will take some time.

“The program that we do will just continue to get better.”

Jon Linney, Peninsula Community Planning Board chair, hailed the grocery’s stores opening as a major step forward for local community control.

“We took our neighborhood grocery for granted – until it was not there,” said Linney, who lives just a few blocks away from the establishment and underlined the success of their stores opening as a major step forward for local community control.

“We’re trying to solve people’s lunch and dinner needs, and our hours are 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day,” said Adam Zack. “We’re taking this store kind of slow,” he said adding, “We’ll walk before we run. We’re going to go slow, so we get it right. The program that we do will just continue to get better.”

Jon Linney, Peninsula Community Planning Board chair, hailed the grocery’s stores opening as a major step forward for local community control.

“We took our neighborhood grocery for granted – until it was not there,” said Linney, who noted much of the Peninsula – La Playa, the base, Wooded Area, Sunset Cliffs – “is miles from a full-service grocery.”

Support Ocean Beach businesses while shopping during the holidays

During the year-end holiday it’s time to be jolly, but also to be smart – and supportive – of local business whenever and wherever possible.

Ocean Beach’s business district offers a wide variety of small-businesses catering to every shopper’s whim. Explore what OB merchants have to offer. It’s an opportunity to find just that right gift for every loved one.

For your shopping list, visit Newport Avenue Optometry at 4822 Newport Ave. They have a wide selection of the most popular sunglasses, including Oakley, Ray Ban and Maui Jim, available in both prescription and non-prescription.

What could be better than premium, stylish eye protection? Call 619-222-0559, fax 619-222-0231.

For those with a sweet tooth acting up, there’s Beach Sweets at 5022 Newport Ave. Celebrate this holiday season with delicious holiday-themed chocolates and confections from Beach Sweets.

“Christmas celebrations always include a little decadence that make it a special time of year for everyone,” said owner Laura Lee Smith. “We have festive chocolates and treats for Hostess Gifts, Christmas stockings, and ideal gifts for everyone on your list. Beach Sweets is dedicated to quality, and making that special occasion both unique and simply delicious in every way.”

If you’re in a retroactive mood this holiday season, you owe it to yourself to check out a place with a real ’60s bent and feel. Bountiful Herbs, formerly Happy Healthy High Horny Herbs, at 4958 Newport Ave. between Bacon and Cable streets.

“Promoting the appreciation, education, benefits, culture and freedom for all natural plants and herbs” is the Bountiful Herbs’ mantra.

The shop’s mantra says it all about the herbalist’s whole-body philosophy stressing keeping everything in harmony and balance. Bountiful sells pre-packaged herbs that can be made into teas or powdered formulas to be mixed into foods like smoothies. The store continues to advertise its services liberally; including its aphrodisiac powders and teas. The “Magical” section is another selling point with products like Salvia Leaf and Mugwort. This year give the gift of good health – an herb from Bountiful Herbs.

Lighthouse Ice Cream, at 5059 Newport Ave., claims to be the warmest and coziest place on the street. Serving hot Julian apple pie, hot fudge sundaes and their famous hot waffle ice cream sandwich.

Not only will it warm your hands but also your heart. Celebrate the holidays with them. The parlor will be closed Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Out-of-town guests arriving this year for the holidays? No worries. Inn at Sunset Cliffs will make everyone feel special during their holiday stay at one of the best view locations in San Diego. And you’ll enjoy the views even more from the Inn’s newly remodeled Terrace Patio. Plus new recent room upgrades only add to the experience.

Dreamgirls fashions has a wonderful selection of seasonal clothing and accessories – all at 20 percent off. That makes it easy to give the gift of fashion. Gift cards are available too!

Christmas lights are sure to sparkle, but for those looking for a different kind of sparkle this year, local jewelry stores may have you covered.

Gilmore Family jewelers has been known for their custom-designed rings and necklaces for more than 36 years. Even though their OB storefront is no longer open, you can find unique gifts including the original “Peace in OB” pendant at their location inside Newport Avenue Antique Center or online at www.gilmoregifts.com.

Looking for a more iconic OB vibe selection? Check out The Black! It is actually a department store/gift shop/smoke shop. To say it is iconic is an understatement. The Black has a jewelry department, clothing, candles, incense, housewares and a music department with cards and books, not to mention a fine selection of tobacco and smoking pipes and accessories. It will blow your mind... The Black is OB. See what’s new and old.

Welcome to the Outdoor Rink at ARTS DISTRICT Liberty Station!

Want to experience skating ice skating in the heart of America’s Finest City all while benefiting a great cause? Come to ARTS DISTRICT Liberty Station and join us in a benefit for the Peckham Center for Cancer and Blood Disorders at Rady Children’s Hospital-San Diego. “Make sure to dress warm and bring a pair of mittens/gloves. During the daytime the ice can be a little wet, so bring an extra pair of socks.”

During the day we have Family Sessions: Great skating for the whole family. Expect young children and parents at the rink. As the sun goes down the teens come out and we see more teens in the early evening, expect faster paced skating.

Night Sessions, Nights are fun at Liberty Station. This session attracts adults willing to give ice skating a try and skate to fun music.
