Bird Rock on edge after park assault

Bike path is scene of other incidents

Dr. Alyssa Ramos | Village News

A La Jolla woman was sexually assaulted and then punched in the face Tuesday, Nov. 18 while walking on a popular bike path near Gravilla and Draper streets. Community leaders issued warnings to residents who use the stretch of remote dirt pathway, recalling similar incidents occurring over the past year.

At about 6:40 a.m. Tuesday, a neighbor alerted San Diego firefighters at Station 13 that a woman was lying on the bike path injured, said San Diego Police Department Detective Gary Hansen. Rescuers found the woman, who said she had been beaten and sexually assaulted while walking on the path, he said.

Although police found a man nearby who fit the woman’s description of her attacker and took him into custody, he was later released, Hansen said.

Firefighters took the La Jolla woman to a nearby hospital, where she was treated for injuries to her face.

“Regrettably, an incident Tuesday morning reminds us to be careful in using the path,” Bird Rock Community Council (BRCC) members said in an e-mail. “The bike path is a favorite trail for jogging, walking or just getting away from city streets and a very unique amenity for La Jollans. However, we need to be cognizant of the University City rallies to save south library

Dr. Alyssa Ramos | Village News

University City (UC) residents have recently clashed over several controversial issues, but community members came together Nov. 18 and 22, rallying to collect signatures in an effort to save the south UC library. Residents sent petitions to Mayor Jerry Sanders and council members, asking for his support.

“The City Council — when they made their decision Tuesday — said it directly impacted their vote,” University City Community Association (UCCA) member Sandy Lippe. “(Councilman Jim) Madaffer said he received hundreds of e-mails and Scott Peters said he hasnaires of you together like this.”

Despite a large pension deficit, the San Diego City Council voted Nov. 25 to keep libraries and recreation centers open for the remainder of the game.

Bishop's boys polo sinks CIF title

Dr. Dave Thomas | Village News

It never seems to get old for The Bishop’s School boys water polo program. The Knights wrapped up yet another CIF crown last Saturday evening with a 4-3 victory over Coronado High in a Division II battle in La Jolla. Justin Wolfe got the game-winner for the Knights late in the third period, and Bishop’s shut out the Islanders in the final quarter for the victory.

Bishop’s (24-7) tied the contest in the third quarter on a goal from sophomore Matt Michalko, while goalkeeper Christian Ronald kept the Islanders at bay for the remainder of the game.

Bishop’s head coach Jim Fales credited a number of players on the night, as the Knights won their eighth CIF title.

“Demian Tischm played superb defense and contributed one goal and several drawn exclusions,” Fales noted. “I was very proud of his effort. Scott Siegel won every sprint, which gave us four more possessions than Coronado. He left everything in the pool. Justin Wolfe’s goal was a thing of beauty and he played with great focus tonight.

“Hilly THill has been our ‘match up’ defender the past three years. He shared most of the load guarding their best player (Alex Johnson) and was a recipient of the San Diego CIF Sportsmanship award (given to him at the conclusion of the game). Christian Ronald, our goalie and the cornerstone of our defense, gave up only three goals in the biggest game of his high school career, including the game-saving block for the win.”

Fales also noted the efforts of Drew Hoffenberg and Michalko, both sophomores who contributed with one goal each. Michalko made two big steals at the end of the game to help clinch it. Ollie Feume de Colombi, Emilio Marreno and David Higginson each played stifling defense and were instrumental in the win, according to Fales.

Every championship (eight) this program has won has been

LJCD harriers capture Div. IV crown

Lady Vikings third, qualify for state meet

Dr. Dave Thomas | Village News

A pair of local cross country teams turned in some top performances last weekend in different CIF divisional races.

On the boys side, La Jolla Country Day (LJCD) School captured the Division IV CIF crown. The effort included a valiant effort from senior Alex Poyhonen, who despite being weakened by the race managed to cross the finish line. Teammates Dennis Roth and Lee Kiltzner also crossed the line to send the Torreys to victory.

Poyhonen gave an outstand ing effort just to cross the finish line after falling (possibly to dehydration) during the race. LJCD head coach Scott Sanders was there at the end to catch Poyhonen as he crossed the finish line.

“There have been questions about whether Alex should have been encouraged to keep going when he was so clearly struggling,” Sanders said. “I have coached Alex for four years and obviously knew him very well. I knew how important finishing was for him, and what kind of a competitor he is. As long as he was able to get back up, I had to let him keep going and keep encouraging him. It was his last race in San Diego, his shot at the state meet, and that of his team as well.

“I was right there next to him,

Cyclist loses control, hit

An out-of-control cyclist was parking his bike at the Mobil service station at La Jolla Village Drive and Villa La Jolla Drive. At about 9:30 a.m. Nov. 24, a man bicycling down Villa La Jolla Drive toward the La Jolla Village Drive lost control and slid underneath an oncoming pickup truck, said San Diego Police Department Traffic Division Officer Brian Young.

“It occurred in the parking lot of the gas station,” Young said. “He was underneath the vehicle, but he wasn’t stuck. He was breathing.”

According to the police, the 48-year-old male cyclist tried to stop but realized he was traveling too fast, so he ditched the bike, sliding underneath a truck. The truck’s tire really rolled over the man, causing severe injuries, police said.

Rescuers took him to Scripps La Jolla Hospital with several fractures, severe injuries, police said.

“Mostly the nifty thing that you pursue out of commission for a while is... really your right,” Faulconer said. “I think the really critical thing is... right now... what you need is to have a nice run... through the lights... and have a lot of kids, who call you... grumpy.”

Library closures go against mayor’s call for deep cuts

Mayoral spokesperson Rachel Liang said council’s decision could affect the new proposed Downtown Central library, though it is unclear how.

Comparing the city budget to managing household finances, Liang said the money being tapped was not part of the council may not be there next year.

“They (council) financed the growth... in city services such as housing and tax returns. So it’s not putting us in good standing next year,” she said.

She added that departments already stretched this will have an estimated $53 million shortfall next year, she said. The city’s budget process for fiscal year 2010 starts in February of next year.

Threats of closing libraries put at risk a number of services the city offers such as a free monthly immunization clinic for children, general city information and drop-off services for city bills.

The mayor is unlikely to veto the council’s decision, according to a mayoral spokesperson. The incoming City Council will revisit budget issues again in May.
remoteness of the trail and what entails.”

“The e-mail was to make people aware and to remind people.” BRCC said. Group members offered citizens tips to stay safer while using the trail.

“If you see suspicious behavior, report it to the police or the fire department where the bike path ends or at Nautilus,” council members said. Group members agreed that for Alex, crossing the finish line was an imperative. Poyhonen finished in 16th place, in 18:21. In the 10 seconds that followed, three more Torreys crossed the finish line. Alex Fletcher finished in 17th, Eric Blodgett was 19th and Noah Wollenzon (the team’s sixth man, non-scoring) was 20th. Jake Mack would finish a minute later, in 36th place.

“The strong races of Lee and Dennis, coupled with the scores of Alex and Eric, ensured the team victory,” Sanders remarked. “We beat Christian by a score of 57 to 68. Had Alex (Poyhonen) not been able to finish, Noah’s score would have also brought us the win.”

What may have seemed like an eternity for Poyhonen to finish just showed everyone involved what kind of effort the young man was willing to give for his teammates on this day.

In the three minutes or so it took Alex to struggle through those last 100 meters of the course, he had been a character and that of his teammates was completely revealed and exposed. “As wrenching as it was to watch Alex suffer and see one of his dreams evaporate (winning the meet), his courage and drive were inspiring. He was strong enough to pay the price of his last CIF race, to be sure, but I know that his main concern in finishing was for his team. That Dennis and Lee would stop racing with only seconds to go out of concern for Alex, and that Kayali trained hard in recent weeks to ready herself for the CIFs, making it possible for La Jolla to do so, is a small miracle.”

On the girls side, LJCD also turned in some good times, as Sam Staszak just missed qualifying for the state meet as an individual; her time of 19:31 was about seven seconds off 12th place. Senior Sashia Binderow finished 25th in her final cross country race, with the team finishing fifth overall.

“With a core group of freshmen on the team, we’re hoping for big improvement next year,” Sanders noted.

Elsewhere, the La Jolla High girls varsity took 13th overall. La Jolla was led by seniors Nihal Kayali fifth place, 17:35, Courtney Avvampato and Tess Plant-Thomas (18, 18), Tastevicke Bliccim (first, 19:03).

“Everybody had very strong finishes, but it wasn’t enough to place the team in the top five. Every girl was fighting hard and drive were inspiring. La Jolla's seals continue to whirl around the Children’s Pool drain as attorneys dragged feds into the controversy, fighting over whether to friggin’ leave the marine mammals where they are, or move forward with the city’s dredging process.

“Attorney Brian Pease filed another lawsuit in federal court,” said Paul Kennerson, attorney for Valerie O’Sullivan, who first sued the city for allowing La Jolla’s harbor seals to interfere with citizens swimming and diving. “He sued the government to require them to get a permit to get rid of the seals. The city said they agreed with Pease but the government made a motion to dismiss the case.”

Pease, attorney for the Animal Protection and Rescue League (APRL) SealWatch, sued the federal government for enforcement of state law, Pease said. “The federal MMPA is a national law, and the California law is a state law, so we tried to use both laws,” Pease said. “The court denied the request.”

San Diego Superior Court Judge Yuri Hoffman had previously ruled on submission that he would order the city to remove the seal colony. Pease said he went to federal court, where Judge William Q. Hayes signed an order temporarily restraining Oct. 22, protecting the seals until Nov. 25. Hayes then extended the temporary restraining order until Feb. 13 – another new permit for Pease and NOAA and the city, Pease said.

“Ideally, we would agree that the city would apply for a permit and no seals would be dispersed until the city gets that permit,” Pease said. “But that has not happened. The pupping season lasts through May 30, according to Pease.

I think even NOAA would have a serious problem with [removing seals during pupping season],” Pease said. Kennerson said he plans to file a new suit in federal court.

“The federal MMPA protects enforcements of state law, Pease said. “But Kennerson said the city couldn’t dredge until the harbor seal colony is removed from federal lands.”

A previous ruling said the city of San Diego must dredge the sand at La Jolla Children’s Pool – a natural harbor seal rookery – until the area is restored to its 1941 condition. But Kennerson said the city couldn’t dredge until the harbor seal colony is removed from federal lands.

“We said they need a permit to do that,” Pease said. “The city has a $43 million budget shortfall now and they would have to hire a full-time staff to go out and disperse the seals.”

La Jolla children injured by Africanized bees

Africanized honeybees stung at least two children Nov. 25 while the youngsters were playing in the woods near their home on Mount Soledad. The incident alerted officials to remind the public about safety concerns regarding the hybrid bees. One 8-year-old boy was stung by a colony of apparent African bees at La Jolla Summit. The boy ran into a nesting hive with friends, according to his father. Although the children were treated for their injuries, public officials said people should remember most bees are Africanized. “The public needs to be aware of the fact that when you come across any hive, it’s Africanized to some degree,” said Chris Conlan of the county’s Department of Environ- mental Health. “Even with a European bee, you’re going to get some activity to some degree, so you want to call a professional.” Africanized honeybees are more aggressive, Conlan said. Although other traits are similar to honeybees, people should think of any bee colony as if they were Africanized. If residents spot a bee hive, Con- lan suggested they get rid of the colony immediately. “Bees are the responsibility of the homeowner. You’re welcome to call the Department of Agriculture, but the longer the hive is allowed to stay in place, the stronger their instincts is,” Conlan said. “They are more aggressive than nonaggressive hive species to protect the hive (increase).” Although Africanized bees fall under the Department of Agriculture’s (DOA) purview, since the DOA combined their appearance years ago, the department no longer tracks sightings, DOA spokesperson Marilyn Marshall said. For more information, or to report an Africanized honeybee incident, call (800) 200-2337.

Voices for Children to host toy drive

Rosecroft and the Clifton family of Point Loma will again host a toy drive for Voices for Children to benefit kids in the foster-care sys- tem who have child advocates. This year’s event will take place Monday, Dec. 1 from 4:30 to 7 p.m. at Rosecroft, 530 Silvergate Ave. The event will feature photo- opportunities with Santa, cookies and cider. Participants are asked to bring a toy or gift for a boy or a gift for a girl or a $25 or $50 gift card for a teenager. Rosecroft will again be specially decorated to kick off the event and the holiday season, according to hostess Mary K. Clifton. sometimes, majority rule is wrong

Just like in his May 22 guest editorial, Dave Thomas is at it again, writing in last week's La Jolla Village News.

Mr. Thomas, you need to stop on Proposition 8 should be the last word on same-gender marriage. "Not a good idea needed in voting in favor of Prop 8," (page 7). This time, he didn't stop there. The worst-used argument that antigay supporters could use would lead us down a slippery slope to legalized polygamy. Dave Thomas, you have argued in our May 29 rebuttal to his first editorial. Mr. Thomas that fundamental rights can't be denied through the vote of a majority. That's why Proposition 8 is being challenged. "Majority rule" is a nice-sounding maxim that Mr. Thomas uses to express his frustration with the Proposition 8 and legal challenges. As we wrote in May, our American form of tripartite government allows for one thing exactly because it allows the judicial branch to act as a check on the power of the majority when fundamental rights are threatened. A person or group is not object to this judicial rule, or is he really worried that these challenges are working. Many of the legal challenges filed after Nov. 4 address the extension clause of the California Constitution. This clause underlines the protection of minorities as a fundamental right. As a constitutional constitutional protection, Proposition 8 seeks to effect a monumental revision of this principle by allowing a bare majority of voters to eliminate a fundamental right of a constitutionally protected minority group (gay men and lesbians). Do polygamists constitute a "constitutionally-protected minority" in the eyes of the California Court? Of course not. Mr. Thomas has no grasp on the fundamental concept of majority not getting its way, when the majority seeks to suddenly and abruptly eliminate a fundamental right — one that this same court granted to gays and lesbians in its ruling this May legalizing gay marriage. As argued in an article on Prop 8, "The citizens of California are working hard to find the least painful and most effective solution we can to this challenge."

Thank you for your support.

majorities... if Proposition 8 takes effect, the # of LGBT citizens will no longer be the final arbiter of the will of the majority.

We urge Dave Thomas to put away his anger and frustration, and stop using scare tactics to justify his argument. Instead, let's watch in awe and gratitude while our state government political process plays out for all the world to see. As fair-minded La Jollans, we support a person's right to be joined in marriage with the one they love, and we're confident that love will prevail in the end, through the courts, the legislature, or the ballot box — whatever it takes. Keith Obermann

— In his recent commentary on SNBC TV when he interviewed, Mr. Thomas is one of a legion of people that have contacted my office with proposals to close libraries, or cut back on fire departments. Various programs and services city-wide are working hard to find the least painful and most effective solution we can to this challenge. You thank you for your support. Mr. Thomas has no grasp on the fundamental concept of majority not getting its way, when the majority seeks to suddenly and abruptly eliminate a fundamental right — one that this same court granted to gays and lesbians in its ruling this May legalizing gay marriage.

Junior Achievers take top honors

Excitement was palpable on the faces of the young selectees being honored for their achievements by the San Diego Business Hall of Fame, having been chosen by Junior Achievement from 40,000 students throughout San Diego and Imperial counties. There to inspire them were three 2008 laureates who personify J.A. ideals: Peter Farrell, the man behind ResMed; Tina Nova, of Genoptix, which she co-founded; and Conrad Prebys, Progress Management, his successful residential construction business since 1965. There were three huge posterboards with photos of the three on display at the reception in the Crown Room but of them, only Dr. Farrell was not present. He did turn up later in videos shown in the dining room and finally in person, after being introduced by J.A. Student Ambassador Max LaMonte from Roosevelt Middle School, while Justice Payne did the honors for Dr. Tina and Stella Maris’s Abigail Balmert spoke for Conrad Prebys. Judging by his attire complementing his mentor’s, Justice has a bright future. He and the others are extraordinarily well spoken and sure to do well in the future. Yet another J.A. ambassador has television in his future, judging by the video he did with George Chamberlin, financial guru of NBC 7/39, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Because of the declining economy, market leaders introduced one way of meeting a $43 million dollar gap in the budget by shutting seven libraries temporarily, including South University City's little library on Governor Drive. The mayor has proposed closing seven recreation centers.

Temporary closures could mean closing seven libraries for five years unless revenue is found to reopen them. At the City Council meeting on Nov. 12, more than 50 people protested the closing of the libraries and recreation centers as the worst thing you could do in an unprecedented recession.

Norman Oder in the online Library Journal, library circulation is up 8 percent in the last three months at the libraries. "Libraries face a larger percentage cut than other departments: $2 million to 5.4 percent of the $37 million dollar budget. The library will lose 37.8 positions, according to the mayor's report," Oder said. The library is the place to go during tough economic times to read a newspaper you can no longer afford to subscribe to, to learn how to use a computer, to visit with like-minded friends at story time for toddlers, to read a literary classic or current magazine.

Although the libraries dodged the bullet this time, there is a guarantee that they won't be back on the chopping block next month or next year. Maybe the mayor has surrounded himself with too many analysts who still call librarians and maybe bureaucrats who haven't been in a library in decades, but they should go and so should the mayor, not for a photo op but for the real thing. The mayor and his entire staff grew up in American cities and towns with libraries.

I'm certain. They shouldn't go back on the chopping block next month or next year.

LJCD tackles Mt. Empire but two QBs injured

The La Jolla Country Day (LJCD) School football team won a first-round CIF game for the eighth straight year last weekend with a 38-6 victory over Mt. Empire. While the game was never in doubt, with LJCD leading 35-0 at halftime, the Torreys did suffer a loss when QB Derek Hafield was lost for the evening with a separated shoulder. Things got worse when backup QB Rubin Pena went down with a lower leg injury in the third quarter. The Torreys finished the game with JV QB Grayson Tucker at the helm of the offense.

Offensively, Hafield hit 4-of-6 passes for 48 yards and ran for 47 yards and a score. Montell Allen rushed for 77 yards and one TD on 10 carries, while Greg Gerhart led all Torrey receivers with four catches for 55 yards. Allen led the defense with six tackles, while linebacker Mike Bailey made five tackles and Indie Lavarias and Gerhart each record-ed four stops. Defensive tackle Junior Togiaso made the most exciting play of the night when he picked up an Allen-forced fumble and raced 39 yards for a touch-down. Finally, kicker Zack Wollen-zen made all five of his PATs and hit his 39-yard field goal.

The first-round victory earned the Torreys a rematch with Pacific League champion Army-Navy Academy on Friday, Nov. 28, 7 p.m., at El Camino High School. Army-Navy will advance to the CIF semifinals.

The winner of the Nov. 28 game will advance to the CIF semifinals. The La Jolla High's Juliette Garay watches her drive during the Nov. 13 CIF San Diego Section playoffs at Wann-der. She hit a 39-yard field goal. The first-round victory earned the Torreys a rematch with Pacific League champion Army-Navy Academy on Friday, Nov. 28, 7 p.m., at El Camino High School. La Jolla High field hockey falls at CIFs

The La Jolla High School girls field hockey team lost to Valley Center in the second round of CIF playoffs by a 3-2 score.

Goals for La Jolla (14-4) were scored by Anna Parma with an assist by Claire Miltemiller and by Maddy Sharp. The Lady Vikings finished the season ranked 10th in the county and second in the Western League (Scrpps Ranch) under new head coach Paula Chicoine.

Kitima Thai

One could describe Kitima as unique, extraordinary and superb, and still fall short of describing its properties. Located on the edge of the small area and also overlooking the ocean in La Jolla, Kitima takes pride in serving authentic Thai cuisine using only fresh and nat-ural ingredients. The menu features an impressive array of organic vegetarian, seafood, pout-y and pork options. Seven spices, including Thai basil, lemongrass, garlic, turmeric, red curry sauce, sets the standard by which all Thai cuisine should be judged. The dishes are homemade, including the popular coconut ice cream. The dinning room, designed in modern/contemporary style, is the talk of La Jolla.

Eagles never take off against Knights

By ROB STONE | VILLAGE NEWS

The Bishop's School football team will hit the road to take on the Horizon Panthers in the second round of the CIF playoffs after shutting out the Julian Eagles, 49-0, in first round action at La Jolla's Gene Edwards Stadium last Friday, Nov. 21.

"We're going to practice hard this week, that's for sure," Knight freshman quarterback Joey Moreno (22 of 46, 60 yards, 2 TDs) said. "We'll get in our conditioning and go full speed the whole time." Against Julian, Bishop's already appeared to be at top speed, while the Eagles seemed to be stuck in quicksand as senior running back Mike Jensen (4 carries, 58 yards, 1 TD) opened the scoring on a 6-yard touchdown run to give the Knights an early 7-0 lead with 5:01 left in the first period.

Bishop's came right back and got on the scoreboard once again as Moreno hooked up with junior running back Hector Fribes (1 catch, 40 yards, 1 TD) on a touchdown pass from 40 yards out to pad the Knight cushion at 14-0. "We played good defense and controlled the ball," Bishop's coach Mike Davis said.

Later in the first quarter, senior running back Jacob Kelly (5 carries, 41 yards, 1 TD) showed that the Knights defense was in complete control of the game when he knifed into the end zone on a 6-yard touchdown run to build the Bishop's bulge to 21-0. "I'm proud of the way we performed," Davis said.

Moreno was one Knight who continued to perform well in the second quarter, as he threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to junior tight end-keeper Justin Peabody (1 catch, 20 yards, 1 TD, 1 PATs to make the score 28-0 in favor of Bishop's. We just tried to play our game," David said.

Just like when sophomore running back Kyle Jesus (2 carries, 68 yards, 1 TD) made a joke of the defense by juking his defenders on his way to a 53-yard touchdown jaunt to jack up the Knight edge to 35-0, "We played hard," Davis said. "Our (Coastal league opponents) toughened us up." Later in the second quarter, junior running back A.J. Chederick (4 carries, 55 yards, 1 TD) was in a league of his own on a 46-yard touchdown run to extend Bishop's advantage to 42-0 heading into the locker room at halftime.

After the intermission, it was more of the same as junior running back Christian Theuer (4 carries, 37 yards, 1 TD) scored on a 7-yard touchdown run with a running clock in the third quarter to seal the victory for the Knights. With the win, Bishop's improves to 5-6 and faces Horizon (5-4-1), a fellow Coastal League member that won the teams' previous meeting on Halloween, 42-18. With the loss, Julian falls to 7-4.

SD AIA again honors UCSD Student Center

By STEPHANIE A. ALDERETE | VILLAGE NEWS

The second phase of the University of San Diego, California, 9500 Gillman Drive, recently completed one of the year’s most impressive local architectural projects, according to the San Diego Chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

“The Student Center has a very unique design and an eclectic and diverse student population,” said James Brown, principal architect of the project. “The Price Center is more official in a way, and so the architecture expresses a high degree of formality.”

The AIA also honored the Price Center with a Citation for its warmth and authentic setting and the jury voted its award to the Public for maintaining the existing character and feel of the new structures in the 1970s center.

“The Student Center has counter-culture aspirations, and ... not so slick.”

Lights, camera, fashions! Golden Hangers gleam

By DIANA CAVAGNARO | VILLAGE NEWS

Fashion Careers College (FCC) presented the 22nd annual Golden Hanger Fashion Gala Saturday, Nov. 8 at the Town & Country Resort and Convention Center.

The evening began with a lovely cocktail reception and fashionable boutique shopping. FCC chair and founder Pat O’Connor welcomed the guests and introduced international fashion designer Zandra Rhodes, who was honorary chair.

Leonard Simpson, KUSI “Style Guy,” was emcee and host for the event. Fabulous items were auctioned off, such as dinner for eight prepared by Rhodes at her elegant beachfront home, pictures of former First Lady Nancy Reagan, a trip to Burberry in Paris, an annual membership to the La Jolla Historical Society, and four dinners at Rolf’s.

“Sometimes people get so caught up in the price, they forget about the experience,” said Kevin Scaglione, vice president of the San Diego County Board of Education. “The student body is so unique and diverse, and the Student Center is very unique design and an eclectic and diverse student population,” said Brown.

County grand jury seeking new applicants

By JOSEPH GREENBERG | VILLAGE NEWS

The San Diego County Grand Jury is seeking applicants with sound judgment and dedication. Applications are now being accepted to make up the 19-member body that will serve from July 1, 2009 through June 30, 2010.

Applications are available by telephone at (619) 450-7272 or from the San Diego Superior Court’s Web site, www.sdcounty.ca.gov. Those candidates who successfully meet the application criteria are encouraged to apply.

Application forms must be received by Jan. 16, 2009. Qualified candidates will be nominated for a random drawing scheduled for June 5, 2009.

La Jollans step up for holiday parade

By AYLISSA RAMOS | VILLAGE NEWS

Amid a lack of funding, La Jollans predicted dire results for the 51st annual Christmas Parade and Holiday Festival until locals chipped in to keep the tradition alive.

“There’s a huge list of [financial] contributors for the parade,” La Jolla Town Council President Darcy Ashley said. “About 50 checks poured in.”

A few weeks ago, Ashley said the council might not have funding to produce this year’s parade, but after reaching out to the community, local families and businesses made donations of $25 to more than $5,000 per check, she said.

“It’s really heartwarming and people are terrifically generous,” Ashley said. “I think what happened is that people didn’t realize the funding sources weren’t there this year. Once they found out the need, they wanted to help.”

Although the council received funding for this year’s parade, Ashley said she is still soliciting volunteers to help ensure its success.

“We’re golden in fund-raising. Now we need volunteers for parade day to help with setting things up,” Ashley said.

Parade leaders are also seeking volunteers 72 hours ahead of time to post fliers on parked cars, ensuring a clear route.

“Last year there were 35 cars that were towed and our goal is not to have any cars towed,” Ashley said.

Town council members are looking for volunteers to help install barricades and traffic cones around the route, help with staging areas and assist with an AIA area, Ashley said.

For more information, or to volunteer for the Dec. 7 parade, call the town council, 454-1444. For information about the parade, visit www.ljparade.com.

The theme for the evening was “Lights. Camera and Fashion!” Three screens were set up and 60-second clips from movies played before each segment in the fashion show. The music from each movie played as the models came down the catwalk. The line-up showcased the designs of FCC students. The audience went wild as bare-chested men came down the catwalk. Each of these good-looking guys had a collar around his neck and was being led by a stylist model in animal prints. This was a huge crowd-pleaser and definitely one of the highlights of the evening.

The show finale was the inspirational designs of paintings from the collection at the Timken Museum of Art. These clever vignettes from different movies were coordinated for the night and began by introducing the Make-A-Wish segment, which is always an audience favorite. Choosing a Companion Caregiver

When looking for a company to provide care for your loved one, ask the following questions:

1. Does the company provide a thorough assessment by an RN geriatric care manager with the training and experience to handle the family and elders needs?

2. Can the company write a detailed care plan tailored to each client?

3. Will it provide services and referrals and coordinate appropriate resources?

4. Does the company provide a RN geriatric care manager who will make regular visits to supervise the caregivers and advocate for the client's medical needs as they change?

5. Can they provide 24/7 services, staffing and management?

Siblings Rejuvenate Classic Songs

For the last five years, Matt and Jasmine Commerce have been delighting audiences with fresh and unique performances of yesterday's music. From "Sentimental Journey" to "Blue Suede Shoes," the young brother and sister play hundreds of old favorites with their signature blend of guitar, violin, and vocal harmonies. Seniors across the country have enjoyed this unique experience, dancing and singing along with the lively renditions of their generation's songs.

Now based in San Diego, Matt and Jasmine perform all around the region as well as many of the senior communities, nursing homes, assisted living and skilled care facilities with their signature blend of guitar, violin, and vocal harmonies.
